My Life in Dolpo

Semduk Lama, the current school manager of the Taprizia Schule in Dolpo, tells us in photographs about his youth in Dolpo, where he worked as a goatherd and yak caravan guide, later earned his livelihood as a trader and trekking guide until he achieved his current position as the head of the Taprizia School. He reports of the manifold challenges of a school manager, of the times with the Maoists, the wild gold rush mood in search of the caterpillar-mushroom Yartsa Gunbu und the consequences of the earthquake of 2015. Marietta Kind, PhD in Cultural Anthropology and president of the Taprizia NGO that supports the school will translate and moderate the conversation.
